

The Grain Dealer Act has been effective in regulating who comes into the state to buy grain from Nebraska producers as well as for Nebraska companies buying grain from producers. The background checks, financial and security requirements make sure that there is a minimum level of protection.